Dear Colleague,

Thank you for your interest in this new and exciting role.

The Leicestershire and Rutland Teaching School Hub has been awarded one of the 87 new national Teaching School Hubs (TSH) for Charnwood, Hinckley and Bosworth, Melton, North West Leicestershire, Rutland.

We are now seeking to appoint an experienced and strategic leader who will establish outstanding provision which will transform support for staff throughout our region and improve lives for children and young people.

You will be well supported by the Trust, through collaboration with our partner TSH based at Rushey Mead Academy and through our key partners at St Martin's Catholic Academy, Forestway Teaching Alliance, Loughborough Teaching Alliance, Rutland Teaching Alliance, Thomas Estley Learning Alliance and the Leicester and Leicestershire SCITT.

As the Director of the Teaching School Hub, you will create a centre of excellence for teacher training and development across the region. The Teaching School Hub will provide high quality professional development to teachers at all stages of their careers. It will play a significant role in delivering school-based initial teacher training (ITT), the early career framework (ECF) when it is available nationally from September 2021, the new specialist and leadership national professional qualifications (NPQ) and appropriate body services for early career teachers. Teaching school hubs will also promote and deliver other high-quality evidence-based professional development to school leaders and teachers.

If you believe you have the vision and expertise to become our Director of the Teaching School Hub, we would love to hear from you – please see contact details below.

To apply, please complete the CES application form and return with a covering letter detailing:

- How your experiences will enable you to build and lead our teaching school hub linked to the person specification.
- What strategies you will use to build partnerships with schools and delivery partners.
- Your vision for the teaching school hub and how it will impact on the region.

We welcome applications from both experienced teachers and non- practitioners, as key to this role will be your ability to enable the system, so it is not a necessity to have classroom experience. The role is not reserved for a practicing catholic but the successful candidate will be expected to be supportive of the ethos of the Trust. The role will be based at Christ the King Catholic Voluntary Academy in Leicester (LE3 6DF) but you will be expected to attend other locations throughout Leicestershire and Rutland as required.

We very much look forward to hear from you.

Yours sincerely,

Martin Fitzwilliam | Director of Performance and Standards
